

ETHICAL AND PERSONAL ISSUES IN THE SELF-CARE OF THE THERAPIST

This experiential workshop will illuminate how the incorporation of self-care strategies into everyday clinical practice serves as a reference point for ethical decision-making. Through a series of interactive and reflective exercises, you will have the opportunity to evaluate your personal self-care habits and how they relate to setting clinical policies and boundaries. Participants will identify the ethical issues inherent in the relationship between therapist self-care and client care as well as name ways to evaluate clinical policies and boundaries, both in general and in specific client situations. Participants will explore the role of self-care in making everyday decisions with integrity, clarity and intentionality.

JIM STRUVE, LCSW AND JOANNA COLRAIN, LPC, CGP

For over 20 years, Joanna and Jim have been providing supervision and presenting workshops based on mindfulness, use of self, and a collaborative model of therapeutic alliance. Both presenters have specialized in trauma and attachment issues, as well as substance abuse recovery, gay and lesbian issues, and life transitions. Visit their websites at www.mindfulpresence.com.

Location: Center for Human Potential, 2237 South 600 East, Salt Lake City

Date: Friday, August 4, 2006 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Cost: $85 before 7/21/06; $95 after 7/21/06

SALT LAKE CITY UT 84105

To register, fill out the registration form below.

CEUs (5 clock hours) have been applied for with Utah NASW and are pending.

REGISTRATION FORM ETHICAL & PERSONAL ISSUES IN THE SELF-CARE OF THE THERAPIST

NAME	LICENSE #
ORGANIZATION
ADDRESS
CITY	STATE	ZIP
DAYTIME PHONE(S)
E-MAIL
$85.00 until 7/21/06 or $95 if received a I AM ADDING $5.00 FOR CEU'S TOTAL AMOUNT OF CHECK	after 7/21/06
MAKE CHECK PAYABLE TO JIM STRUVE AND MAI JIM STRUVE 1399 SOUTH 700 EAST. SUITE 2	L ALONG WITH THIS REGIS	TRATION TO:

Workshop space is limited. Registration is on a first-come basis. If you have any questions, please contact Jim at 801-364-5700 ext. 1.